Mayor Miro Weinberger Promotes Transportation Alternatives and their Benefits during "Way to Go!" Multi-Modal Tour

Burlington, VT – Mayor Miro Weinberger today held his "Way to Go!" multi-modal tour* during which he promoted through his own action various transportation alternatives to driving the single occupancy vehicle. Weinberger's modes of transportation included walking, riding the bus, cycling, and car-sharing. Engaging in these healthier, more eco-friendly, and less expensive forms of transportation reduces our commuter carbon footprints.

"We organized today's tour to showcase for all Burlingtonians the tremendous benefits that come with taking advantage of our great variety of transportation alternatives," Weinberger said. "By walking, riding the bus, cycling, and car-sharing, we all partner in protecting the environment, creating safer streets with fewer automobiles, and encouraging others to join us."

Weinberger's multi-modal tour coincided with the upcoming start of the annual Way to Go! Statewide Commuter Challenge, which will take place during the week of May 14-18, 2012. During Way to Go! week, everyone who commits to walk, bike, telecommute, carpool, ride the bus, or use any other solo-driving alternatives will be entered in multiple drawings to win great prizes, including Burton snowboards, overnight stays, restaurant gift certificates, yoga passes, spa treatments, bike tune-ups, golf and ski passes and more. To learn more about and/or to register for Way to Go! week, please visit www.waytogovt.org.

During last year's Way to Go! week, more than 3,200 participants saved over 450,000 commuting miles, reduced emissions by 350,000 pounds, and saved more than $90,000 in transportation expenses. Vermont's long-term goal is to save the state at least 500,000 pounds of transportation pollutants.

At a public event on Church Street earlier this week, Weinberger kicked off both Walk/Bike Month and the 2012 Vermont Bike Challenge.
